Pleadership Class.

18. MR. A. HOOGEWERF (Nominated): Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the professors of the Law College were of opinion that the Pleadership classes should be abolished or, at least, the standard of examination for entrance into this class should be raised to the Intermediate examination?

MR. R. KRISHNA PILLAI (Chief Secretary to Government): Government have no information. But the Principal of the Law College was of the opinion that either the Intermediate examination should be made the qualification for admission to the Pleadership class or that three more professors should be appointed to enable separate classes to be held for the benefit of the Pleadership students.

MR. A. HOOGEWERF (Nominated): Is there any necessity at all for the Pleadership classes, considering the large number of graduates turned out of the College?

PRESIDENT: You cannot put argumentative questions. You can only put questions to elicit information.

MR. A. HOOGEWERF (Nominated): Is there any necessity for Pleadership classes in the Law College?

MR. R. KRISHNA PILLAI (Chief Secretary to Government): Yes.

Undergraduate Teachers in Vernacular Schools.

21. MR. N. RAMAKRISHNA PILLAI (Vaikam cum Ettumanur): Will the Government be pleased to state whether the undergraduate teachers teaching English in the vernacular middle schools are given the same scale of pay and the same opportunities for being sent up for training as teachers with the same qualification in English schools and, if not, why?

MR. S. PARAMESVARA AIYAR (Secretary to Government): The minimum qualifications for undergraduate teachers of English in English and vernacular schools are the same; but, in practice, those selected for English schools have better certificates than those appointed to vernacular schools and lower pay is accordingly attached to the latter
